The National Tribune.

PUBLISHED WEEKLY.

ONE DOLLAR PER YEAR, INVARIABLY IN ADVANCE.

ADVERTISING RATES-FLAT. Guaranteed Weekly Circulation 100,0 30c, per again line for display. 20c, per again line for Cinssified Column

20c. per agate line for Classified Columns 50c. per line for reading notices. Medical ads. admitted to Classified Columns only. Epecial position, when granted, 20 per cent. add Advertising can be canceled at any time five days be fore date of issue.

No discounts for time or space.

Columns 2½ inches wide; 21½ inches long; seve columns to the page. Sample copies rualled free on request.

MATI BOY & SHOPPELL, Proprietors

ENTERED AT WASHINGTON POSTOFFICE AS SECOND-CLASS MATTER WASHINGTON, D. C., JUNE 11, 1903.

Office: 229 Pennsylvania Avenue N. W.

It is a comfort to know that Breathitt County, Ky., gave Bryan 724 majority.

THE Annual Encampment of the De partment of West Virginia, G. A. R., has unanimously indorsed the $12 per month service pension bill.

Supreme Court for some time, to restrain Colorado from taking so much water from the Arkansas River. Why wasn't she smart enough to sue out an injunction to restrain Colorado from emptying so much into the head waters of the Kaw River?

APPARENTLY the day of canals is dawning again. New York contemplates spending $100,000,000 in the improvement of the Erie Canal, and the Ohio Republican Convention declared in favor of "modernizing" the magnificent canal system of that State, so as to make it efficient for transportation.

This seems to be a year for good Commanders in the G. A. R. . The Department of Missouri has elected Frank M. Sterrett is well known throughout the Order for his good works, and did particularly well as Adjutant-General for Commander-In-Chief Rassieur.

AT THE Annual Encampment of the Department of Kentucky the following reso lution was unanimously adopted:

diers, sailors and marines who served 90 days or more in the war of the rebellion, and to the widows of all such soldiers,

THE world do move. North Carolina has forgotten the race troubles and the "domination of the negro" long enough to the North Carolinians can only get their mial Lost Cause for a little while, they will discover other resources which will make the State as wealthy as Pennsyleyes off the eternal negro and the perenwania.

MAJ.-GEN. ALEXANDER McD. Mc-McCook, who played so large a part in the history of the Army of the Cumberland until the battle of Chickamauga, has made his residence in Washington, but went to Dayton on a visit. He was retired April 22, 1895.

GOV. VAN SANT, of Minnesota, has dewided that he will not be a candidate for rided that he will not be a candidate for tions by reason of the great number er re-election, and will retire from politics at gaged in the struggle, but we will not in the close of his present term. He feels dorse the statement that the pension list that his public career properly closed with is a great burden which the country can his successful fight against the mergers in which the United States Supreme Court sustained the principle he advocated. It families. Take an average family, and is hardly likely the people of Minnesota you will find the children and the aged will suffer him to retire, for he has proven himself too valuable a man to be lost to the public service.

COMRADE STEPHEN M. LONG'S Post, at Orange, N. J., unanimously indorsed him children and repay their indebtedness to for Commander of the Department, and their parents incurred when they were still ever was possible to secure his election. He has been an earnest member of the He has been an earnest member of the go hand in hand. Neither parent nor child, Post since 1882, and has done a world of if true, will ever find it a burden to progood work for it, as he has for the National Association of Ex-prisoners of War, of which he has been Adjutant-General for many years.

AFTER having to labor with unusual difficulties and embarrassments, Past Adjutant-General Silas H. Towler has at length book is in very good shape. The matter has been properly arranged, being well classified, a good report made of the proceedings of the National Encampment, and aration as far as money can compensate a very comprehensive index helps one to for losses of this kind. find at once whatever he may desire. In every way the work is very creditable to tant-General's office.

STILL ANOTHER WAR GOVERNOR

Comrade Hugh Hall, 22d Wis., Columbus, Wis., reminds us that there is another War Governor yet living than those who have been mentioned. Ex-Governor James IT. Lewis, who is now upwards of 85 years, still lives at his home in Columbus. Wis., and is able to ride out in pleasant weather. His mind is as active as it was 40 years ago. Gov. Lewis was a member of the Territorial Convention which formed the Constitution for the admission of Wisconsin, Dec. 15, 1847. He held a number of prominent offices in the new State, he does not give sufficient importance to and was finally elected Governor in 1863 by the largest majority ever given for Governor. Since his retirement from the doubt that, as he says, all the money paid office he has not engaged in politics, though he has been a lifelong Republican.

Comrade O. M. Dering writes of him: "He has always been one of the best to a fall a couple of years ago, he is obliged to use crutches, but he comes down after his mail in his carriage almost every day. He does not seem to have any idea of giving up yet, and we all hope he will be with us for many days."

DISTRIBUTION OF PENSIO

your several articles describing the general benefits to the country through the widespread distribution of the annual pension money. You are laying special stress upon the fact that these payments prevent an undue accumulation of funds at the telephorhood of posts and forts, and the benefit hardly extends beyond them. The same is true of the officers and men the Eastern money centers, while the other three-fourths of the $600,000,000 gathered by the Government yearly in the shape of taxes and revenues, and spent for various purposes, are said to be flowing directly back into the coffers of the capitalists and wares, but again, the benefit of the dis-

expenses of the Government, while the lat-ter represent individual claims for services rendered and losses sustained many years should finally go to the money centers, where the banking and transportation interests transact their business and make their settlements, is only natural and necessary, as they in turn furnish the means for keeping the wheels of industry sion certificate reaches him at once, and their settlements, is only natural and necessary, as they in turn furnish the means for keeping the wheels of industry in shop and field agoing. As the heart drives the life-giving blood through the daily requireback, so bring about the daily requireback, so bring about the daily requireback. State of Kansas for example, as take the State of Kansas for example.

guard his own from the selfishness of the others, but, upon the whole, all thrive best when a decent regard for the common good is observed all around. One of the common good is observed all around. others, but, upon the whole, all thrive best when a decent regard for the common good is observed all around. Our resources in ready money are very large, but compared with the great volume of business transacted, they are but a small fraction, and were it possible for any clique to stop their free circulation only temporarily, it would free circulation only temporarily, it would that great State. For this money the people reasonable expansion seeks a more or less a year. It is not withheld when the grassoccur after the general business situation has become bad, and not through mere ume of appropriations, amounting to about $1,200,000,000 during the two years term little debts, and passing from hand to The wedding came as a most agreeable of one Congress, we can readily see the great influence of its legislation on the business affairs of a Nation, and the most

The annual budget must be adjusted to the annual budget must be hopered a large surplus or a hand to hand in the payment of debts "Resolved, That the comrades of this big deficit, a most difficult matter to arrange successfully. The danger of possible mistakes in this direction would be estimated in the payment of debts from one to the other, it begins to flow back in rills which gather into creeks and then into great rivers flowing toward the distribution of the payment of debts from one to the other, it begins to flow back in rills which gather into creeks and then into great rivers flowing toward the Government could be legally kept as deposits in banks instead of being locked up n the vaults of the Treasury, where they

the view that the distribution of pensions cause, as is said, that it especially af-fords the means to keep money in circu-ments. inform us that she has discovered an im- lation which might otherwise congest and mense deposit of tin in her mountains. If lie dormant at financial centers, I did not mean to dispute in the least the justice and equity of pensioning our veterans or well afford to dispense using a mere inci-dental circumstance as a favorable argu-

The country is indebted to the soldiers COOK, U. S. A., retired, was stricken for risking their lives and the welfare of the source pension are very dangerous, for with apoplexy last week, and is lying in their families at a time when the Nation's they confuse the minds of the people and a very critical condition at Dayton, O. very existence was trembling in the bal-His death is expected at any time. Gen decided the issue. A grateful people inaugurated a system of pension payments for the victorious sol liers of the Republic as the best means pay a debt which could never be computed out swamping the resources of the country, rich and seemingly inexhaustible as they are. We may admit that the pension roll has attained formidable propor not carry without staggering under the

A nation is but a composite of many vide for and minister to the wants of their family to pursue, why should it not apply with equ'l force to a nation—espe-cially after it has passed through such a terrible ordeal as our civil war proved to be, where hundreds of thousands laid down their lives, lost their health. up opportunities to secure their future. gotten out the report of the proceedings that the Nation might live—the Union be of the 36th National Encampment, and the preserved. Every man killed or disabled during his service in the army is a permanent loss to those who had a natural right to depend on him for assistance or support, and the country owes them rep poorer by assuming the care for all those whom the war left disabled and helpless Comrade Towler, who thus crowns a very in the struggle for subsistence, be they satisfactor; administration of the Adju-soldiers crippled by wounds or diseases, or tant-General's office. as the Commonwealth only divides a den equally amongst all those who share shoulders of those who bore the brunt of the battle besides.

In conclusion let us hope that the coun try will never forget the sacred duty to provide for all who fought and suffered in the war for the preservation of the Union.

The above is an admirably written article by a man who has evidently made a careful and intelligent study of the financial question. The only disagreement that we have with his statements is that the beneficial effect upon the money situation of pension payments. There is no out by the Government helps in some the very gratifying manner in which measure to keep up a healthful circulation, but there is no comparison between Capital observed Memorial Day. Gen. these and the healthful and equable influence of the wide distribution of the money disbursed in pensions. Let us take, for example, the money paid to the officers and soldiers of the army. It is true ment took an interest in the ceremonies by him in the purchase of the necessarie EDITOR NATIONAL TRIBURE: I read of life he may require. Inevitably, a very at The same is true of the officers and men of the navy. The money paid for the three-fournant yearly in the shape of taxes and revenues, and spent for various purposes. It is true that they disburse a large portion of it for wages, but, spain, the benefit of the dissurements for certain for distribution and circulation of all the funds collected and disbursed by the Government through its various departments.

That every follar expended is for value.

That every dollar expended is for value or some of it is disposed or some or the sums appropriated for rivers and marbors, not pay out some of it is disposed for colling and analyze is short-circuited disposed or services rendered we may presume the companied of the expendence of the expendence is for value.

The every dollar expended is for value or some of it is disposed or some of it is disposed or some of it is disposed or colling and analyze is collected and disbursed by the double fold.

The every dollar expended is for value.

The interpolation of the expendence is for value and interest on the publishers of Tur National Trueurs.

The every little difference in the management is created to every little difference in the management is created to every little difference in the management is created to every little difference in the management is contractors. The way is such that the complex was a did did not overstate the deep interest in the dainty folds.

The tarry is did not overstate the deep interest in the dainty folds.

The tarry is the sample of the contractors. It is true that the complex of the management is created to prove the composition of all the funds of the provents of the capital provents of the complex of the provents of the complex of the complex of the complex of the f building of warships goes into the coffers gress. In each item there is, it is true, Their effect on the business situation of the country is, however, the same, and in proportion to their respective amounts. That the bulk of these disbursements should finally go to the money centers, where the banking and transportation in what a remote corner a man by magnetias on the banks of the Neuse River, with orders to make themselves as comfortable as possible and get in readings for any emergency and the time when their services might be needed. It was a delicious experience for the war-worn boys, who speedily made their services might be needed. the country is, however, the same, and in proportion to their respective amounts. these interests as each one is trying to the army and navy, its effect is smaller drill and guard duty every day to others but most the army and navy, its effect is smaller drill and guard duty every day to others but most the most example. iolent readjustment to existing facts and hoppers ravage the State, and the drouth scattered everywhere in the State. Some of it goes into every County and Township, and at once becomes the ready money of the people, enables them to pay off their each little community of passing from money centers. It will be readily seen ments and variations of a plain, straight. rell disposed toward pension legislation anyway an opportunity to attack the measure and grossly exaggerate its probable cost. The Supreme Court has decided that no man can receive two pensions, and the "additional" pension will be construed under that head. The greatest any feature which will afford opponents of a bill an opportunity to magnify its the straight service pension bill, but there we have figures to refute them, and can say with some degree of certainty just what the probable cost of the measure will be. If anything extraneous is brought in which permits of any uncertainty, it gives these opponents their opportunity, which they are going to use to the utmost. Therefore, we strongly adjure all the friends of more liberal pension legislation to drop all these schemes, at least for the time being, and unite upon the plain proposition of $12 per month to every man who served 90 days or more, and was honorably discharged, with the same rate to his widow. This is so simple that the public mind can rendily grasp it and comprehend its justice. Anything beyond this will confuse the public mind, and give opportunity for question, doubt and successful opposition.

THE PENSION PLANK.

The following is the pension plank of the Ohio Republican Platform:

"Nearly three thousand millions lars paid to pensioners since the Republi-can party came into power, almost all of it under legislation enacted without a disenting Republican vote in Congress, but always against Democratic opposition, attest the contrast between the parties in this respect, and yet further liberality was evidenced by the pension legislation of the

This plank would have been more symmetrical if it had included a statement that more than 6,000 millions had been paid the bond-holders during the same time in interest, premiums, etc., on a loan which was less than the donations to the country by the men who served it through the differences between their pay and the wages they would have recived at home. It is entirely creditable to the Government that they have dealt thus liberally with the men who lent it money, but it would seem that equal liberality is demanded for those who gave it something much more precious than money.

COMRADE J. J. FITZGERRELL, Past turned Pete, disappointedly, and he dis-Commander of the Department of New Mexico, writes from Mexico City. where he is now residing, as the comrades residing in the Mexican Powell Clayton, United States Embasador to Mexico, made the address, and Commander W. G. De Gress conducted the ceremonies. The Mexican Governthat this goes in small sums to each in- and the cadets from the Chapultepec Milidividual, and is immediately distributed tary Academy were present in a body.

and the Kankakee Prairie Hens were sent considerable disbursement direct to the into pleasant camps under the flowering people generally, but nowhere, nor at any magnelias on the banks of the Neuse Riv-

While it is true that a great deal of the cers' tents were even more luxurious, and money appropriated by Congress will the parade ground was hard, smooth and clean enough to satisfy the most exacting free circulation only temporarily, it would lead to most serious consequences.

It is true that conditions arise with us from time to time, when credit is exhausted by overspeculation, and an unreasonable expansion seeks a more or less a year. It is not withheld when the grassexpended in having their surroundings as perfect as hands could make them, and circumstances, which create for a time a blights the grain and the pastures. Every the admiration and envy of the other region panicky feeling. This, however, can only three months something like $1.500,000 is ments. But after they had done all they three months something like $1,500,000 is ments. But after they had done all they scattered everywhere in the State Some could think of, and had sonked into their systems what seemed whole worlds of rest, the novelty of the situation began to wear off, and the long Spring days spent in lying around even such tents as theirs hand in quick succession does ten times sensation to relieve the sameness of the the work that the large sums going in at every-day routine. Every man in the brigade knew and admired Shorty, even the interval of a year can possibly do. As though quite a number of them had come soon as the money has done its work in they had had during their three years service with him. Sold er-like, they were very proud of him and all that he did, and back in rills which gather into creeks and then into great rivers flowing toward the became at once anxious to contribute to that this process is incomparably more good will toward the big red-headed Sergeant, who was feading in the way they desired to go in marrying the girls they left behind them. helpful and beneficial to the business situaing of the activity of life than any other

In the long marches every member of the regiment had acquired nick-nacks of one kind and another, and these stores were now remarkably drawn upon. It was astonishing what incongruous things had charmed some. A big hulking woodchopper. who want to warn the comrades who are urging making the $12 per month service pension "additional" to any other pension which may now be received that they are endangering the passage of the service pension bill. All these amendments and variations of a plain, straight.

charmed some. A big hulking woodchopper, who swore like a whole colony of pirates, had carefully wound an in his only linen handkerchief a beautiful ivory lidded Bible, such as a girl would carry at her first communion. Another had a sandal woodchopper, who swore like a whole colony of pirates, had carefully wound an in his only linen handkerchief a beautiful ivory lidded Bible, such as a girl would carry at her first communion. Another had a sandal woodchopper, and the same while the sandal service pension bill. All these amendments and variations of a plain, straight.

around. Then it frequently happened that people started to flee, carrying their household goods, and, finding them a burden, threw them away. Very naturally, if there was anything in these leavings that the bear activities are the control of the if there was anything in these leavings that the boys could carry off with them on the march, they did so.

Pete and Sandy had had their two heads danger always is in the introduction of together for some time, eagerly discussing any feature which will afford opponents some project. Pete held no grudge against the Deacon; and in their cub fash of a bill an opportunity to magnify its ion the two youngsters worshiped the probable cost. They will do this with ground Maria walked on.

ground Maria walked on.
"You reckon she'll take it?" asked Sandy fearsomely as he turned a small package over in his hand. "It's mighty little," he added, "an' she might think it ain't worth nothing."
"Miss Maria would take it all right," asserted Pete confidently. "She's brick, and besides that, she knows ain't got no place to buy nothing else, even if we have got money," slapping his pockets with a magnate's air. 'Well, shall we try her?" asked Sandy.

"Well, shall we try her?" asked Sandy.
"I guess we'll have to strike her ma first," replied Pete slowly.
"Well, go on, then!" and Sandy thrust the package into Pete's hand; "I'll foller." "Say, Mis' Klegg," said Pete bashfully to that matron, who was sitting busily en-gaged in the problem of some mystery of white linen. His diffidence was something quite unusual. After the first two weeks of his service Pete was no exception to boys of his age in the army, who speedily grew impudent and saucy in direct reverse we caught lots of the citizens stealing from the lines. Why, we caught lots of the citizens stealing from did not know more than the whole War Department, or hesitated to yell at a Brig-not been presented to her lately.

"Mis' Klegg," said Pete, hesitatingly.

"ain't it the way for folks to give presents to other folks when they are married?" "Yes, Peter," answered Mrs. Klegg, couragingly. "Up home all the neighencouragingly. bors usually send in something to young couple to help them start in life. It is a very pretty custom when it is not carried too far, and folks don't give what

"That's what me and Sandy, thought," returned Pete. "You know, we think a great deal of Serg't Elliott, and we've been talking it over and studying about what we would give him when he got married."

Nonsense, Peter," said Mrs. Klegg de-edly. "Nothing of that kind is expected cidedly. from little boys such as you are."
"We nin't little boys," said Pete with dignity, trying to rise above the castiga-tion of the Deacon, and assert himself. "We're so'diers: We've been soldiers more'n two years now, and lots of folks said we're very good ones."
"I guess you are better soldiers than the are better soldiers than the "I guess you are better soldiers than the verage," said Mrs. Klegg smiling and average, turning her attention again to her work. "Run away, now, and don't bother me "Well, ma'm, I'll come in again directly appeared.

"Mis' Klegg," he said, reappearing shortly with the package in his hand.
"Yes, Peter," responded Mrs. Klegg, it along until I should meet one. It's no looking up a little impatiently from deep perplexity in the scratching of gathers.
"Her's something that me and Sandy "Her's something that me and Sandy it is in the world to me, and you can have it if it's any good to you. Fine weather we are having, though I think we are better the chair."

Yawman, who had been a good deat of a political worker in his township before enlistment, "by calling the Hon. Montgomist it's no use in the world to me, and you can have it if it's any good to you. Fine weather we are having, though I think we are better the chair."

Monty ruffled up his hair, as he had seen a good deat of a political worker in his township before enlistment, "by calling the Hon. Montgomist it if it's any good to you. Fine weather we are having, though I think we are better the chair." looking up a little impatiently from deep use in the world to me, and you can have the perplexity in the scratching of gathers.

"Here's something that me and Sandy thought mebbe Miss Maria might like. It the best seen than the market seen red silk handkerchief, and unrolled it with the tips of her fingers; its condition sorely offended her cleanly ideas. "Some fool boy stuff, I suppose," commented Mrs. Klegg internally, but she was too kindhearted to let Pete know what she process,

"Well, there can't be much in it that is worth anything," said Annabel, as the paper kept piling up on the floor, Just them Mrs. Klegg caught the end of the paper and gave it a jerk which sent the package whirling into the air, and there unrolled from the last layer a shining, shimmering length of white tuile!

Annabel gave a scream of joyeus sarprize, while Maria clasped her hands and looked ecstatically at the soft, filmy stuff as it lay along the ki chen floor, and over the broken-backed dining tab'e. Mrs. Klegg was so surprised that she said noth-"I call the Chairman to order," inter-

WITH DELIGHT.

Maria's face fell, and she laid the case something to eat and a place to stay. Then the men who was with him was shot, and then he didn't have anybody."

"He must have stolen them," persisted Mrs. Klegg, in conscientious severity.
"Probably taken from some house. We can't have nothing to do with them. can't receive stolen goods."

Tears came to Annabel's eyes, and Ma-

"Stole nothing," snorted Pete. "The 200th Ind. don't steal, and never stole anything in its whole life." Sandy gave his partner a kick as warning not to be so wholesale in his as "He picked it up in the streets of Columby," continued Pete, "where it was kicking around in the mud, the same as proportion to their size. A boy of 15 who one another, and then stealing back again. We took loads of stuff away from the Department, or hesitated to yell at a Brig. thieves, which Serg't Klegg gave to the Pete was no phenomenon.

"What is it, Peter?" asked Mrs. Klegg kindly, looking over her glasses at the boy, for the bashful phase of his character had

"They are engraved with my name, almost," said Maria, taking the spoons up who's done less slavin' and drudgin' than wistfully, "M-A-R-I-E. Only got to change the last letter. Hermann there at

"I may keep them, mayn't I, Ma?" anxiously pleaded Maria.
"It looks all right," hesitatingly answered her mother. "You may keep them at least until the rightful owner turns up, ever. They'll be safer with you than kicking around camp among these boys. Thank you, boys," to the happy lads, "Pete, I could almost love you," cried Maria, as he dodged her and ran away aughing.

"Morning, Mis' Klegg." saluted big. awkward Corporal Yawman, of Co. Q. counging up. "Hear you're going to have lounging up. "Hear you're going to have a wedding up here?"
"Yes, Mr. Yawman, we are," answered Mrs. Klegg composedly.

"Well, here's some woman's fixings that "Well, here's some woman's fixings that ters of g.

I got when we went through that blockade runner's wagon down by Cheraw," eager for answered Corporal Yawman, producing a flat package. "I thought I would cut it like?" flat package. "I thought I would cut it up into pocket handkerchiefs, but when I came to look at it it is too flimsy and rot-has her name on them."

Mrs. Klegg took the package rather gingerly, for it was wrapped in a dirty red silk handkerchief, and unrolled it with many layers of much-torn wrapping pa-or Queen victory, murmured Maria turning them over fondly. "Who are they for, Pete; the girl you are writing to?"

'Sure as you are a foot high, they ain't. If you'll take them, Miss Maria, they are for you," said Pete, grinning in delight at the sensation his gift had created.

'Sure as you are a foot high, they don't have been sure for you," said Pete, grinning in delight at the sensation his gift had created.

'Sure as you are a foot high, they don't have will have been sure for you," said Pete, grinning in delight at the sensation his gift had created.

'Sure as you are a foot high, they don't have known that there are sens to have known that the sens the sens the sens to h Over his shoulder appeared his partner's was a girl round in this burg who needed the wedding garment and has been doing its best to he'p her out."

"Wedding garment," expostulated Mrs. legg. "Now, Maria, you know your pa while the smaller articles of wearing apparel, such as silk hose, ribbons, gloves, soft, fine silks and laces were numerous.

The Union soldiers were not looters nor thieves, but in the marches whole towns were sometimes evacuated and the houses fired. The boys often put out these fires and carried off the little things left lying and carried off the little things left lying are the said that he wanted us to have them and carried off the little things left lying are left lying and carried off the little things left lying are left lying and carried off the little things left lying are left lying are left lying and carried off the little things left lying are left lying and carried off the little things left lying are left lying and carried off the little things left lying are left lying and carried off the little things left lying are left lying large. The little things left lying are left lying large larg > evening. Resolutions are all very well, but we want to do something more sub-stantial than pass resolutions. We want "Father and mother nothing," said Pete scornfully. "He did'nt have none. They died a thousand years ago, and he was selling papers in Philadelphia when one of them Twentieth Corps regiments came of the Twentieth Corps regiments came."

>
> A wedding vali: Just think of it chosts as the was started host start to me pitalward to tell Si and Shorty of the good luck coming their way. "It is just as the way started host start to me good luck coming their way. "It is just as the way is a start to me and pretty as the one that Sis Harrison got in New York for that rich cousin."
>
> The started host started hos the to make a present that'll be worthy of us just and the bride and groom. What shall it Everyone wanted to give money, but mon-ey was not what they wanted to present.

As Co. Q was finishing supper the stentorian voice of Corp'l Yawman reared the qualified voters of this here school dis-trict will now assemble in a mass-meet-

"That's what we are." answered the Corporal. "Goin' to express our opinions you git to heaven, about them givin' you last year's halo.

wasn't born to be no man's slave and

EDITOR NATIONAL TRIBUNE: What was the origin of "Mason and Dixon's Line" and the exact location of same?—F.
H. PHILLIPS, Goffstown, N. H. change the last letter. Figure 2015 the part of Pennsylvania and Maryland. The patent given to Sir George Calvert, "That's right. Blackguard a man about the part of Baltimore," granted him posid interval in your growlin'. This army southern Pennsylvania, including the city of Philadelphia and the whole of Dela-Yawman started to retort, but "Now, this war is about over at last, Swedes. Penn got Charles II. to decide when we'll all go back home, and be free in his favor, but the Calvert heirs reand independent citizens of the great State sisted, and in 1766 Charles Mason and of Injianny once more, and we ought to begin learning how right away. The Executive Committee of this here school dis trict have decided to call a mass-meeting of all the qualified voters, to consider mat-seat with becoming dignity on a pork bar- ery, to which it owes its fame. the honor," he began.

"Cheese that, Monty," admonished Corp'l Yawman. "This is a citizens

"I ain't out of order. I won't take my seat. I won't be set down upon by any young snip of a recruit," shouted Dickin-

"Look here, Sim, I won't have you dis-turbing a public meetin' this way," warn-ed Corp'l Yawman. "I'm Corporal of the Guard, and if you don't shut your head I'll yank you off to the guard-house. You hear me?"

"There it is again," growled Dickin-sheets, subsiding, "Military tyranny ev-erywhere. No meetin' free from it. But I insist that I can call the Chairman to fayette for it."

"Go on and state the objects of the meeting, Mr. Chairman," commanded

"As I was saying when interrupted," resumed Monty, "we are assembled upon an occasion of great importance? A lead-

"There he goes again." interrupted Dickinsheets, "Fellow-citizen, when we're all mere minions of"— "Mr. Chairman," called Yawman, "I move the appointment of a Sergeant-at-Arms to disperse this rabble."
"The Chair appoints the gentleman who has just risen Sergeant-at-Arms and disperse the sergeant of t has just risen Sergeant-at-Arms, and di-rects him to maintain order," said Monty, with great readiness.

"Hear that, Sim? Now quile," said

"Hear that, Sim? Now quile," said Corporal Yawman.

"One of our leading fellow-citizens," resumed Monty, "is about to take a very important step in life—a step, I may say, which many others hope to follow as soon as they get released from their present engagement with Uncle Sam, and make others from which Abe Lincoln can't discharge them."

"Hi-yi-yi," yelled the boys, "We're all candidates, as soon as we can find the

"Hi-yi-yi," yelled the boys. "We're all candidates, as soon as we can find the girls to give us the nominations."

"Get down to business, Monty. Get down to business, Monty. Get down to business, Monty. Get down to business," urged Yawman. "I'll have to go and relieve guard pretty soon. Don't talk just to hear yourself."

"When the Chair wants any advice from the Sergeant-at-Arms it will request it," said Monty severely. "This gentleman, whom we all admire, is about to be united in matrimeny to the young lady for whom we have the highest esteem"

"Hold on, there, Monty," broke in Alf Russell. "You're cutting into my part. You know I'm Chairman of the Committee on Resolutions, and I'm to say" tee on Resolutions, and I'm to say"—

"The Chair must not be interrupted in Monty.

"But you musn't go on all night, talking yourself, and using up all the big words," interposed Yawman. "Let the other boys have a show."

"I'd like to know who's doing as much talkin' as you are, Josh Yawman," yelled Sim Dickinsheets. "Give your mouth a leave of absence."

Yawman retorted angrily, and the harmony of the meeting was broken by a heated squabble, with Monty pounding on the barrel with his bayonet, and demanding order. When peace was at last re-stored, it was found that there was no

There came a volley of suggestions.

It was not the right character of a wed-furnish it, or give the bride a silver set, or a gold watch. All these were canvassed in Committee of the Whole, and decided as impracticable under the present circumstances.

A thought occurred to Harry Joslyn.

"Say, they'll want a ring to get married with." he shouted.

with," he shouted.
"Yes, yes" they all called expectantly.
You all know that big diamond the Quartermaster wears. He says it cost him $500. He sat into a streak of bad

In a couple of minutes the necessary $150 was in his hands, with injunctions to

'There goes tattoo," announced Monty.

"Fall in for roll-call! This meeting stands adjourned without a day."

(To be continued.)

MASON AND DIXON'S LINE.

Mason and Dixon's Line has its origin in a dispute which arose from the over-ware. William Penn strongly disputed this, claiming that he was entitled to as far south as the 39th parallel, and that Delaware was already settled by the

in his favor, but the Calvert heirs re-

Jeremiah Dixon, two English surveyors, were sent to mark off the boundary according to the decision in Penn's favor.

which placed the line at 39° 44". At the end of each mile was placed a stone which bore the letter P and the Penn arms on the north side, and the letter M

This was always unsatisfactory to the Maryland people, and there was much bickering about it, sometimes even threatening war between the two States, but it was finally accepted and became the boundary line between freedom and slavling gift. They wanted to buy a house or stating the object of the meeting,"

KANSAS has had a suit pending in the facilitated by the use of money in ex-ment of Missouri has elected Frank M. machinations of speculative cliques, who, Sterrett, Post 1, St. Louis. Comrade as a rule, mainly feed on their own kind. When we consider the enormous vol-ume of appropriations, amounting to about to prevent trouble.

are not accessible for business purposes. If I have, heretofore, argued against tion in preventing stagnation and infusand infirm depending on the efforts and labors of the adult vigorous man and the care of the housewife, whose terms of usefulness are ordinarily limited to 25 or 30 years. During this period they do all the substantial work and accumulate savings, if the chances are favorable, bring up their instructed all the comrades to do what young. This is simply every day life, and the self-understood rule wherever family ties are kept sacred, and duty and love loved ones. If this is good and the true course for Nor is the country as a whole made any alike the benefits gained in the struggle. Otherwise it would be thrown on the de of these."

"They are fine enough for Mis' Lincoln aged to explain themselves.

"SURE AS YOU ARE A FOOT HIGH, THEY ARE FOR YOU," SAID PETE, GRINNING

or Queen Victory," murmured Maria turn- | "You see, Ma, this is what they mak

Wedding garment, exposurated and Klegg. "Now, Maria, you know your pa wouldn't let you git married in a dress made out of that stuff! Why, it wouldn't be decent. It ain't no thicker than the because we was the only ones that had done anything for him."

"I think they ought to go to his father and mother," said Mrs. Klegg. "You're no right to them."

"You're have suggested as possible, if the Kleggs "we come to the real business of the angle of the real business of the angle of the real business of the angle of the angle of the real business of the angle of the real business of the angle of the angle of the real business of t had been at home.

"A wedding vail! Just think of it" choof hers, over to the Corners," declared Maria. "O, yes; O, yes! Come into court!

ing."
"Hello, what's eatin' you now, Yawp?" ria's face was a picture of woe as she laid inquired Sim Dickinsheets, the chronic the spoons back in the case and started to snarler of the company. "Goin' to hold a primary?

> of this greatest country on earth."
>
> "Where've you got all that freedom and independence hid about you, Yawp? I hain't seen none of it since I enlisted back in Injianny; I hain't dared enter the commissary didn't want it. Let's buy it for a wadding the commissary for $150. in Injianny; I hain't dared say my soul now, but've been ordered about by every shoulder strap and stripe, from the Gengles and make the purchase immediately. eral down to the lowest water-carrying Corporal, such as you are, Yawp."
> "O, you're always grumblin, Sim," replied the Corporal, good humoredly, "Your clothes never fit. You'll be kicking when

"I've had good reason to grumble drudge."

ria. Just say that they are from Paris. You know there is a Paris in Indiana, up in Jennings County. There's where Becky Smollet went with her husband."

"I may keep them, mayn't I, Ma?" anx-know it, Sim. Come now, Sim. Have a latitude. This embraced a wide strip of business is near'y over now."

"They'll find some way to keep us in as long as we live," growled Dickinsheets.

"No, they won't. They'll only be too glad to git shet of feedin' and clothin' ters of great importance.

"A mass-meeting," yelled the boys eager for anything which would be a di

"Yes; let's have one. What's it "The committee will begin," said Corp'l and the Baltimore arms on the south side.

seen speakers do at home, composed his face to a severe expression, and took his

FOR THE first time since the war not a single veteran was nominated on the Corp'l Yawman. "This is a citizens' meeting. No soldier racket in it."

"Excuse me, I forgot myself," Monty corrected himself. "Friends and fellow-decided benefit a"; the coming election. State ticket of Ohio, though it was pointed out that such a nomination would be a